

CRASH VICTIM DIES; DRIVER HELD

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO FORMER IMPLEMENT MAN

Christian Goessel, aged 67 years, well known former Tinley Park farm implement dealer, died very suddenly of a heart attack in his home in Tinley Monday night. He had complained of pains in his chest, but thought it was a cold and took some cold remedy. Monday evening he told his wife he was going to bed a little earlier than usual. Mrs. Goessel was busily engaged in doing some house hold work and when she was to retire at about 11 o'clock, she noticed that Mr. Goessel had a peculiar look and when she touched him, found he was cold. Dr. Carmichael was summoned and found that Mr. Goessel had been dead for sometime. It is thought he suffered a heart attack shortly after he went to bed.

The deceased was the eldest son of the late Christian Goessel and his wife Dorothea nee Schreiber. He was born in Bremen township, December 21, 1873.

May 8, 1918 he was united in marriage with Louise Bruening. He was engaged with his father in the farm implement business and after the latter's death he remained as the I. H. C. representative for many years, but retired from this business sometime ago. He appeared to be in good health and his sudden demise came as a great shock to his family and the community.

Surviving are his wife, one step son Walter Bruening; one sister, Mrs. Wilhelmina Bormet; three brothers, Berthold, Carl and Edward and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon in the Zion Lutheran church in Tinley with Rev. Albert Buddenhagen officiating. Burial was made in the Zion Lutheran cemetery.

Five Sons Hold A Memorial For Mother Who Died Overseas

Five sons paid a touching memorial tribute to their mother who died across the sea in the Isle of Man, England, on March 27th of this year.

The five sons gathered at the Wm. Lowe home in Mokena last Sunday at a brief memorial service held at 1:30 o'clock in honor of their dearly beloved mother, Mrs. Lydia Frances Lowe. Rev. Mr. Lindgren, pastor of the Mokena Methodist church had charge of the service. The consoling words and the beautiful thought which he left for these five sons and their families to meditate on was highly appreciated as also were the services of Mrs. John Balaz who sang two of the departed mother's favorite hymns and Mrs. Immanuel Marti for her assistance.

Guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Lowe, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. George Lowe, Kempton, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowe and family, Emmington, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lowe and family, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aspel, Joliet, Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Marti, Mokena, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maue and son of Grant Park and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Woodrich of Mokena.

The five sons wish to express their appreciation to Rev. Mr. Lindgren for his kind and comforting words which he rendered in memory of their departed mother.

Will Hold A Jungle Luncheon

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church will give a Spring Jungle luncheon in St. Mary's Hall Thursday, May 9 at 1 o'clock. D.S.T.

The outstanding treat of the afternoon will be a talk by Mrs. Mina Malek of Frankfort who has been a missionary in Africa. She is a most interesting speaker. Come and enjoy a delicious luncheon and a delightful afternoon.

Guy Colby Calls Dances Tonight

The popular Guy Colby of WLS who is scheduled to head a big American Legion dance at Goodings Grove hall on 143rd street about 4 miles west of Orland Park on Friday night May 3rd, said on the radio Thursday noon that by the way the weather looks he will have to provide the guests with snow shoes, but regardless of the weather a rip roaring good time is anticipated.

The Orland Park Legion Post 526 is presenting Guy Colby the nationally famous WLS Barndance caller with 5 couples of expert barndancers.

V. F. W. Holds Joint Installation At Mokena Hall

The members of Wm. Martin Post No. 725, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States and the Ladies Auxiliary to Wm. Martin Post, held a joint installation of officers on Friday April 26 at St. Mary's Hall, Mokena. The installation of the officers of the Auxiliary preceded that of the Post and was conducted by Mrs. Leonora Morrissey of Stone City Post Auxiliary of Joliet.

The color team of the South Wilmington Post Auxiliary conducted the floor work, assisted by their musician. The officers installed are:

President, Louise Hentsch; Sr. Vice-President, Edna Pierce; Jr. Vice-President, Adela Elliott Groves; Conductress, Elsie Hinds; Chaplain, Ella Waldrip; Treasurer, Elvira Niemann; Color Bearers: Julia Hart, LaVerna Olson, Maud Larson, Mable Johnson; Trustees: Gertrude Carey, Gladys Vander Boegh, Maud Larson; secretary, Adela Elliott Groves; Patriotic instructor, Gladys Vander Boegh; Guard, Elsie Gensens.

At the conclusion of the Auxiliary installation the officers of the Post were installed, with Howard Hoagland, 5th District Commander Department of Illinois, as installing officer. Officers installed are:

Commander, Wm. Myrick; Sr. Vice-Commander, Grover Weddie; Jr. Vice-Commander, Andrew Eisenbrandt; Chaplain and Service officer, Fred Steinhagen; Quartermaster and Adjutant, Fred Hentsch; Trustees: Wm. Schuldt, Henry Hossbach, Harry Gens; Officer of the Day, Harry Gens; Publicity Chairman, Don Hall, Jr.

In a short address Commander Hoagland congratulated Wm. Martin Post for being one of the few Posts in Illinois on the Honor Roll of the V. F. W. He also stressed the importance of the approaching V. F. W. Buddy Poppy Drive.

Mrs. Gertrude Carey, National President of the War Mothers was present as were members of many V. F. W. Posts and Auxiliaries, also representatives of the various local clubs and associations.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Begin Hearings On Operations Of Conservator

Hearings began in probate court before Judge Fred R. Adams Monday morning on objections to the report of Joseph Ringle, Frankfort farmer, as conservator of the estate of Frank Kaiser.

Ringle himself took the stand and was questioned concerning details of certain investments which he had made since his appointment in 1926.

He declared that he was not entirely familiar with all details, asserting that William Lankenau, former president of the Frankfort State bank, had handled the investments until 1932, when Attorney Elmer Biefeldt began assisting him in his duties.

Attorneys Robert Wallace and A. H. Krusemark, Jr., told the court in an opening statement that their objections would center upon "the alleged mismanagement of the estate" and the entering into certain investments without court approval. They represent Harry W. Osman, the objector, who was named administrator of the estate to supersede Ringle after Kaiser died in 1937.

Kaiser is represented at the hearings by Attorneys Biefeldt and Pence B. Orr.

They objected to the proceedings on the grounds that the court erred in appointing Osman as administrator, and that this hearing could not properly go back of the current report for the period since 1932.

Rural Teachers Ass'n Elects Officers

The Lincoln Highway Unit of the Will County Rural Teacher's Association, held their last meeting of the school year Friday, April 26, at the Schmuhl school.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was held at that time. The results were as follows: President, Mrs. Iva Sproat; Vice President, Miss Romayne McLaughlin; Secretary, Miss Mary Louise Wagner; Treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Fields; and Program Chairman for the year, Mrs. Alma Thornberg.

The first meeting next year will be held at the Gougar school the third Friday in September, at which time a program will be given under the direction of Mrs. Hilda Waler, Mrs. Alma Thornberg and Mrs. Elizabeth Fields.

HUNDREDS AT LAST RITES FOR MRS. F. HIRSCH, SR

Hundreds of relatives, neighbors and friends gathered at the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena Sunday afternoon to pay their final tributes of respect to the memory of Mrs. Frank Hirsch, Sr., who passed away of a sudden heart attack in her home about 11 o'clock Friday morning.

Mrs. Hirsch, nee Philipena Zahn was born in Mokena Feb. 23, 1865. December 13, 1884, she was united in marriage with Frank E. Hirsch, Sr. For a few years they resided in Blue Island, but for over 35 years they have resided in Mokena.

One daughter, Mrs. C. J. Sippel, preceded the mother in death.

Those surviving are the husband, one son Frank; one daughter, Mrs. Harry P. Mall, two grand children, and many other relatives and friends.

Rev. Theodore Haeefe, pastor of the St. John Evangelical church officiated. A male trio from Chicago Heights sang a number of songs.

The floral offerings were very profuse and beautiful.

Interment was made in the St. John cemetery south of Mokena.

Mr. and Mrs. Hirsch celebrated their golden wedding in 1934.

Pretty Home Wedding Solemnized

A simple, but very pretty wedding was solemnized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Scheer on Saturday, April 27 at 3 o'clock, when their daughter, Lola, became the bride of Mr. Orville Schroeder, son of Mr. August Schroeder. Rev. G. S. Gerhold performed the ceremony. The home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers. A very picturesque nook in the living-room was formed by palms and candles which were lit by Mrs. Elmer Batson, sister of the bride.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Burton Briedert, with Mrs. Harold Scheer at the piano sang "Oh! Promise Me!" and "I Love You Truly." Following these songs Udell Gay, nephew of the groom played the wedding march on his accordion.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was dressed in Navy blue with white trimmings and wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Lester Gay, sister of the groom was dressed in dusty rose and wore a corsage of roses, served as matron-of-honor.

Mr. Harold Scheer, brother of the bride was best-man. Milton Batson, nephew of the bride, clad in white satin and carrying a white pillow was ring-bearer.

Mrs. Scheer, mother of the bride was very attractive in a sky-blue dress and wearing a corsage of sweet peas.

After the ceremony with Mrs. Albert Stauffenberg pouring, assisted by Mrs. Edward Vollrath, Mrs. George Minger, Mrs. Albert Minger and Mrs. Augusta Weber, a wedding luncheon was served to the open house guests numbering seventy-five.

At 7 o'clock a wedding dinner was served to the immediate families, numbering eighteen guests in the Woodruff hotel, Joliet.

Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder left for a motor trip to the Smoky Mountains and other points of interest. On their return they will reside in the home of Mr. August Schroeder.

To Discuss New Lenox Fire Dist.

The New Lenox Civic Club extends an invitation to all the citizens of New Lenox to attend the meeting of the club to be held on Tuesday evening, May 14th and hear a discussion and explanation of the new proposed fire district and fire protection for the entire township. The meeting will be held in the New Lenox school auditorium commencing 8 p. m.

Mokena Bees Bring Good Price

Donald Platt of Will County, marketed a drove of steers from his farm near Mokena in Monday's trading at the Chicago Stock Yards this week.

The consignment, which consisted of 30 head of 1290 pound bees, brought $11.15 per cwt.

The editor of The News-Bulletin who has been working for better protection for the motorists at the intersection of 159th and Wolf, a few miles north of Mokena has just received the following letter from Matthew C. Sielski, Safety and Traffic Engineering Department of the Chicago Motor Club:

Mr. William Semmler, Editor, The News-Bulletin, Mokena, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Semmler: We have made a very thorough study of the intersection of 159th Street and Wolf Road just north of your city. It would not be advisable to petition for traffic signals at this intersection because the volume does not meet State requirements. The State Highway Department does not erect traffic signals unless counts made show that there is a flow of 1,000 vehicles through an intersection for a six hour period. The counts made at this intersection are far below this specification.

However, since there is a large turning movement at this intersection, we have recommended that the State Highway Department change the traffic control to a four-way stop instead of two. We have written the State Highway Department in reference to this matter and as soon as a reply is received, we shall notify you again.

Thank you for coming to us with such traffic problems and if we can be of any further assistance, do not hesitate to write again.

Bristol Lauffer of Mokena Marries Joliet Girl

Mr. F. Bristol Lauffer, son of Mrs. Florence Steele of Mokena and Miss Rose Mary McMahon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon of Joliet were united in marriage on Wednesday morning at a 9:30 mass in St. Patrick's Catholic church in Joliet.

The bride was becomingly gowned in blue crepe ensemble with white flower hat and wearing a shoulder corsage of lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Collette McMahon served as bridesmaid and wore a dusty rose ensemble and a shoulder corsage of pink sweet peas. Mr. George Lauffer served his brother as best man.

Father Kennedy was the officiating priest. The single ring ceremony was used. During the service the Ava Maria was sung by a friend of the bride.

A wedding breakfast was served following the service to the immediate families at a tea room.

In the afternoon a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 517 Jefferson Street for friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Lauffer left that evening by automobile for a two weeks eastern trip. When they return they will make their home in Chicago where the groom is employed.

Named Hostel Headquarters

The Palos Park Youth Hostel of Palos Park has received its official AYH charter for 1940 from the National Headquarters of American Youth Hostels at Northfield, Mass. Members of the committee sponsoring the hostel are: Lloyd Wesby, Berwyn, Ill., chairman; Mrs. Laura Pector, Chicago, Mrs. A. H. MacGregor, Miss Clara Myers, Orland Park, M. C. Harding, Palos Park, Ross Dixon, Chicago.

Rev and Mrs. Paul T. Sanders, houseparents of the hostel, are preparing for a busy season. Last year they had hostellers from three states and two foreign countries, Canada and Holland.

This hostel is one of 52 hostels in the Great Lakes region, in which were registered 2934 overnights during 1939, according to Justin J. Cline, the AYH fieldworker for this region. Neighboring hostels are located at Wheeling, Ill.

Snowballs Instead of May Baskets

Instead of hanging May baskets on the first of May, the youngsters made snow balls.

While the early spring tulips shook in the wind and robins shivered in the trees, the merry month of May opened with a snow storm joke by Mother Nature.

According to the United States Weather Bureau this is the fourth time in 63 years that nature had sprung this little surprise, the other dates being May 1, 1888; May 3, 1907 and May 9, 1923. Once there was a trace of snow in June.

DEATH COMES TO FRANKFORT RESIDENT

Mrs. Elizabeth Bauch, nee Baumgartner, aged 76, died in her home on April 29. She was the wife of Mr. Jacob Bauch who died on March 26, 1940.

Mrs. Bauch was a very quiet individual, but very much interested in her local church. She was in poor health for a long time.

Alma Handorf A Pretty Bride

At a very impressive ceremony last Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Handorf of Joliet, Miss Alma Handorf, became the bride of Mr. Harwood Stellwagon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stellwagon.

While Miss Minnie Harnew, cousin of the bride played "because" and the Lohengrin's wedding march, one bridal party took their places before a power of palms. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Russell Lauffer sang, "I Love You Truly."

The bride was beautiful in a gown of white bridal lace and net with a finger tip veil caught at the head with a beaded crown. Her bouquet was white roses and feverfew, for something old, she wore a gold necklace that the groom's mother wore on her wedding day.

Miss Wilma Handorf served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a light blue organza dress and carried pink roses and feverfew.

Russell Lauffer served as best man. He and the groom wore boutonnieres of roses. Mrs. Handorf and Mrs. Stellwagon wore corsages of roses and sweet peas.

The Rev. E. Titus, pastor of the Marley Church, performed the ceremony using the single ring service.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the home. The bridal table was decorated in pink and blue and was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. The Misses Clara and Vera Harnew, Marion Handorf, Doris Handorf Lois Hamerschmidt, Ethel Handorf, and Mrs. Loren Sass, served.

THAT THIRD TERM

President Grant Almost Made It, He Led for 36 Ballots in 1880

Teddy Roosevelt, Who Had Served Seven Years, Made Only Other 'Serious' Try in 1912 As 'Bullmooser.'

A contemporary cartoon by Keppler, depicting Grant as a "presidential automaton" (operated by Fish, Morton, Conkling and others, hidden behind the platform) who silently smoked his cigar while the people anxiously awaited a statement from him about his third term intentions.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, last in a series of three impartial reviews of the third term issue, tells how a "dark horse" named James A. Garfield prevented Ulysses Grant from being elected a third time.

III. THE TWO BIG PRESIDENTIAL TRIES

ONLY twice in history has a President been receptive to a "third term." Ulysses S. Grant was the first and Theodore Roosevelt was the second. In Roosevelt's case, it wasn't exactly a "third term," for he had not previously had two complete terms as President.

About the middle of Grant's second term some of his supporters started a movement to renominate him. Immediately there was an uproar.

"Caesarism!" shrieked the New York Herald, the leading anti-administration newspaper, and that cry was echoed by Horace Greeley's powerful New York Tribune. Then other papers joined in the campaign to awaken the public to the dangers of the political machine that had been built up in Grant's administration.

As a result of this uproar, the Republican state convention in Pennsylvania on May 26, 1875, resolved:

"That we declare a firm, unqualified adherence to the unwritten law of the Republic which wisely, and under the sanction of the most venerable examples, limits the presidential service of any citizen to two terms and we the Republicans of Pennsylvania, in recognition of this law, are unalterably opposed to the election to the presidency of any for a third term."

Grant had felt that it was undignified for the President to reply to the accusations of the newspapers. But when members of his own party went on record so strongly he felt that he couldn't ignore the issue.

He issued a statement informing the convention that he had sought neither his first term nor his second. "I am not, nor have I ever been, a candidate for renomination," he wrote. "I would not accept a renomination if tendered, unless it should come under such circumstances as to make it an imperative duty—circumstances not likely to occur."

Feared He'd Be 'Drafted.'

But this didn't allay the suspicion that he might permit himself to be "drafted." So state conventions continued to adopt anti-third term resolutions and on December 15 Rep. William M. Springer of Illinois offered in congress a resolution

That in the opinion of this house the precedent established by Washington and other Presidents of the United States in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become by universal concurrence a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 234 to 18—80 Republicans joining with 146 Democrats to pass it over the opposition of 18 Republicans. That stopped the third term talk and Grant supporters made no effort to oppose the Republican nomination of Rutherford B. Hayes, who won in the election.

After leaving the White House Grant started his tour of the world which became a triumphal procession in every country he visited. When he returned his friends began talking third term again. Although he told them privately "I am not a candidate for any office, nor would I hold one that required any maneuvering or sacrifice to obtain," they weren't convinced that he wouldn't accept it if offered him. Even if he was sincere in disclaiming any desire to return to the White House, that wasn't the case with his wife. Julia Dent Grant wanted to be queen of Washington society again. How much she had to do with convincing Grant that he might win a third time is unknown. But it was probably considerable.

At any rate, he allowed Roscoe Conkling to proceed with the build-up for his nomination by the Republicans. Sentiment in Grant's favor grew rapidly, partly because of his popularity with the people and partly because of their dissatisfaction with Hayes' administration.

As the movement to renominate him gained momentum, the old cry of "Caesarism!" was raised again and early in 1880 a number of Republicans held an anti-third term convention in St. Louis. They adopted resolutions denouncing the third term idea, the corruption of the Grant regime and Conkling's "bossism."

When the Republican national convention was held, this element joined forces with the Hayes wing of the party and the supporters of James G. Blaine to prevent Grant's nomination. But despite their efforts, he led the balloting for 36 votes, only to lose out when they sprang a "dark horse" in the person of James A. Garfield.

Bitter in Defeat.

When Grant received the news of his defeat, he spoke bitterly of his managers. "They never should have permitted my name to come before the convention unless they were sure of victory," he declared, which was pretty sure proof of his desire for a third term and his willingness to accept it if offered him.

The case of Theodore Roosevelt was somewhat different from that of Grant. He became President on the assassination of President McKinley. After he finished McKinley's unexpired term, he was elected on his own right in 1904—and this was his only election as President. He had, however, served seven years, almost two terms.

On November 4, 1904, after his victory over Alton B. Parker, the Democratic candidate, Roosevelt issued this statement:

On the fourth of March next I shall have served 3½ years and these 3½ years constitute my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance, and not the form, and under no circumstances will I be a candidate for nor accept another nomination.

A "third term" boom was started for him in 1907 and he was obliged to repeat his refusal. Both these refusals rose up to plague him in February, 1912, when a letter signed by the Republican governors of seven states asked him to be a candidate again.

"I will accept the nomination for President if it is tendered to me, and I will adhere to this decision until the convention has expressed its preference," he replied.

Despite the cries of "Steamroller!" and "Fraud!" by Roosevelt adherents, the convention expressed its preference for Taft. So T. R. bolted the convention, formed the Bull Moose party and campaigned as its candidate. Although he carried six states with 88 electoral votes, as against Taft's two states and eight electoral votes, Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate, carried 40 states, got 435 votes in the electoral college and won an easy victory.

Science Seeks New Ways to Fight Old Age

NEW YORK.—Science hasn't yet found a way of beating the Grim Reaper, but modern research is making great strides in uncovering causes and preventatives of physical and mental old age.

While admitting that people who live much beyond 100 years are rare exceptions, medical men have decided that proper care during youth and proper diet the rest of our lives can do much to keep men and women living to a ripe old age.

Seeking causes for the death phenomenon, they believe that old age is simply a series of changes in the human body, but no single place has yet been discovered where its effects are first felt. Glandular deficiencies are popularly thought to be largely responsible, and this in turn may often be traced to dietary deficiencies. When skin becomes drier, wounds take longer to heal, and bones get brittle it is generally conceded that the trouble can be traced to the glands.

Finds 'Filtrate Factor.'

Though medical men frown on straight vitamin dosages, Dr. Agnes Fay Morgan of the University of California has tried to isolate a new vitamin whose absence from the body is at least known to bring on many symptoms of premature age.

In working with rats Dr. Morgan has concentrated on diet, perfecting a "filtrate factor" whose absence results in rapid aging. Among ordinary foods, the constituents of this filtrate factor are believed to be contained in yeast, whole rice and rice hulls, eggs, milk and many vegetables.

Science has certainly determined that overeating is not conducive to longevity. It has long been a proverb that gluttons "dig their graves with their teeth," and laboratory rats allowed to eat all they wanted actually did experience shorter lives than those whose diets were controlled.

Hope to Boost Life Span.

Although it is recognized that a long life is often inherited from ancestors who possessed the same traits, some scientists actually hope the average life span can be increased to 100 years. Nor is this all they promise, for a long old age of feebleness is not conducive to happiness. Science believes, rather, that if mankind will co-operate it can avoid death by disease or other accidents until the time comes for a quick old age and sudden end.

Sociologists are heartened by a modern reversal of the recent trend toward "junking" old people as unfit for profitable employment. It is now conceded that both youth and age are needed for a proper balance of the community, and old people themselves are realizing that their mental outlook on the world and life is as much a part of staying young as anything else.

Cite Franklin's Work.

Historians point to innumerable cases where people have done their most notable work at an advanced age. Benjamin Franklin was serving the United States as ambassador to France when he was 79, and several years later was making some of his most important scientific discoveries.

Moses, vigorous Israelite leader, was past 90 when he led his people to the promised land.

Frenchmen still talk about Ninon de Lenclos, a lady who lived in the days of Louis IV. Although never beautiful, she was so witty and had such a lively mind that men were in love with her when she was past 80.

An Englishwoman, Jane Lewson, attained the age of 116 before she died in 1816.

It is because science believes premature death is caused so largely by accidents of youth that medical men lay great stress on protecting children from diseases that affect the heart and other vital organs. No offer of help is held out to those who seek repair of such bodily damages, yet Dr. Morgan found that rats which had gray hair and other signs of premature old age showed improvement when the "filtrate factor" was introduced in their diet.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

Carter Field finds it difficult for a member of congress to maintain a neutral attitude... Unlike Democrats, Republican presidential camps have developed no bitterness yet.

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON.—That recent vote of the senate naval affairs committee on the amendment of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is the clearest demonstration possible of the difficulty any member of congress has in maintaining a "neutral" attitude—even in act, much less in thought.

Lodge's amendment would have required that all the aircraft appropriation for the navy for the next fiscal year, $12,000,000, be spent within that fiscal year. The committee voted it down 10 to 7.

Now the object of this amendment of course was to prevent the navy—and in spirit it was aimed at the army also—from stepping aside, so to speak, in favor of prompt deliveries of planes to Britain and France. It is another twist on the argument about letting the allies have the latest models of planes.

The whole administration has been moving rapidly in the direction of giving the allies priority, and for several reasons. First and foremost has been that the allies—certainly up to the Nazi invasion of Denmark and Norway—had not been in such a buying panic as they were earlier. When the war first broke out, London expected a mass air attack, by thousands of German planes, every hour.

FAR FROM BEING NEUTRAL

Then the British and French were in a rush to get all the planes they could. As time dragged on, so much so that some experts began to speak of the "phony war," the allied buying missions became a little more choosy. They would make contracts only for the best.

Reason No. 2 of course is that the administration—and this goes for the army and navy—is far from being neutral. It wants to help Britain and France against Germany.

When it comes down to cases, the 10 senators who voted against the Lodge amendment voted to favor the allies. The seven senators who voted for it voted to hamstring the allies. That is a blunt way of putting it, and does not concern their motives at all. For instance, a senator voting for the Lodge amendment could justify his position by insisting that the national defense of the United States is vital.

ALL LOVELY IN G. O. P.

So far there has been no bitterness in the Republican contest for the presidential nomination. In sharp contrast with the Democrats, where under the sweetness and light of the public statements there is gall and wormwood, the G. O. P. battles have not engendered any hates.

Up to now there is nothing to compare with the bitterness that the followers of John Nance Garner, Paul V. McNutt and James A. Farley feel about the White House denial of their chance to make a showing. The point is that in all three of these camps there is utter certainty that President Roosevelt will not run for a third term. If he does run, in spite of their convictions, their bitterness will, to a large degree, fade. Not that they will like it, but they will not feel that they have been cheated.

But what they believe now is that the President has no thought of running, and is using his own strength with the rank and file of Democratic voters, and with the big city Democratic machines—such as the Kelly-Nash organization in Chicago and Tammany in New York—to hamstring Garner, Farley and McNutt.

If their beliefs turn out to be correct—if the President chooses not to run, and throws his mantle on Cordell Hull, for instance—or the man he really wants if he does not want it himself, Robert H. Jackson—then the Garner, McNutt and Farley followings will believe they have suffered from the rawest gyp game in the history of presidential nominations.

DEWEY'S CHANCES

No one will ever know, for instance, just what Garner would have done if the whole strength of the administration had not been thrown against him.

But while there has been no real bitterness, yet, on the Republican side, a pretty good foundation is being laid for it. A great many astute political observers believe that Thomas E. Dewey hasn't a Chinaman's chance for the Republican nomination, despite his record of winning primaries and his strength as shown by various polls.

ELMER AND THE 1940 CIRCUS THE circus is on the way again, and this department is afraid. It is filled with grave misgivings. It is apprehensive. It fears the modernistic trend will be continued and that there will be further attempts to make an elephant glamorous, give "oomph" to a camel and envelope the big tent as a whole in an atmosphere of silks, satins and "it."

For the last three or four years this influence has spread to a point where the customers have been coming home a little confused and declaring that they have just been to the "Barnum and Billy Rose Circus" or "The Forepaugh and Shubert Combined Shows."

"Old P. T. Barnum had the right idea about a circus," declared Elmer Twitchell, chairman of the National League to Preserve the Flavor of the Big Tent. "It should look like a circus, act like a circus and smell like a circus. Last year they even advertised that it would be air-conditioned and perfumed. I thought the elephants and camels acted very depressed about it all summer."

"The circus was really a circus when you could smell it a mile away. The smells made it. Air-conditioning is all right in its place, but the circus should be left untouched by it," continued Elmer. "However, that's all done and over; what I'm afraid of is that the Follies decorative influence will spread, especially in the opening pageant."

"The opening pageant has always made a hit with me, but especially so before George White, the late Flo Ziegfeld, Earl Carroll or any of those boys could touch it. I warmed up to the pageant when you could tell that Sir Galahad was just a bum, that Ben Hur was a hustler who needed a shave and that Cleopatra and her ladies were just a lot of faded women."

"For the last few years the idea has been to put an Errol Flynn on every horse and a Hedy Lamarr on every elephant. It softened up the whole show. I can stand for one of those Winter Garden ensembles and for those Hollywood super spectacles from the Arabian Nights, but I like my circus parades straight."

"I'm just hoping for the best," concluded Elmer, "but I fear the worst. One more yard of lace in that opening pageant, however, and I'm through!"

"Democracy is greater than cynicism. Decency will prevail over trickery. A people of integrity will insist upon a government of integrity."—Mr. Dewey.

Lynn stared: "Do you think I could persuade Rundhia to try to prove Captain Norwood's innocence?"

"But Lynn dear, if Captain Norwood has been guilty of taking a bribe—"

Lynn interrupted: "I don't believe Captain Norwood is guilty."

"But what do you know about him?"

"Maharaneer dear, what do you know about me? How do you know I'm not a criminal?"

"Lynn—"

"Maharaneer dear, even if Captain Norwood could be guilty of an ungentlemanly, mean thing like taking a bribe, it was I who betrayed him and I want him to know it. If he isn't guilty—"

The door opened suddenly. Rundhia entered, followed by an attendant in the Maharajah's livery.

"Yes," said the Maharaneer, "that man can be trusted. Lynn dear, I will give him both your letters. He will find Captain Norwood, even if he has to hunt all over Kadur."

She gave the man emphatic orders in his own language, told him to go at once, watched him along the corridor and led Lynn through the brass gate to the women's quarters.

Rundhia waited, standing. When he heard the messenger's footfall returning along the corridor, he opened the door, admitted him, closed the door, held out his hand, received both letters, glanced at them and returned to the messenger the one that was addressed to Mrs. Harding.

"Deliver that one. After that, keep out of sight for an hour. Then return and say that you have delivered the other letter to Captain Norwood. Go."

Rundhia opened the letter that was addressed to Norwood. He smiled. There was no heading:

"Your unkindness about what you saw this morning does not make me wish to hurt you in return. There is something I wish to tell you. It is important. I hate myself for something that I said unintentionally, under great strain. I can explain it. Won't you see me?"

"Lynn."

CHAPTER XIII

The Bengali doctor entered Rundhia's suite at the palace with the air of a crook who is afraid of a master-crook. He assumed an air of self-importance that he didn't feel; of confidence that didn't exist. He didn't wait for Rundhia to tell him to be seated, and he began to speak in Bengali.

Rundhia interrupted him: "You may discontinue dosing Mrs. Harding. Miss Lynn Harding has accepted an invitation to remain here at the palace, so the sooner the aunt clears out of Kadur the better. Let her get well."

"She has refused medicine. I had to put it on her breakfast food. And now she won't eat. She will recover quickly enough! There is nothing much the matter with her. I am relieved. I do not like to do such things to western people."

"Could you get at Captain Norwood?"

"No."

"I think you'd better. Last night at supper, Norwood watched your clumsy play when you gave that pellet to Mrs. Harding. The way you switched the pellets wasn't clever. Norwood suspects you."

"Captain Norwood is himself under suspicion," the Bengali answered. "He stands accused, does he not, of having accepted a bribe? You told me to say so to Mrs. Harding. And I did."

"Yes. I was coming to that," Rundhia interrupted. "I thought the news might influence her to keep Norwood away. Now, look here: officers caught taking bribes, especially if they're popular and well connected, very often commit suicide. Norwood's suicide would be appropriate, convenient and, in the circumstances, not suspicious. How do we go about it?"

"We don't!" the Bengali answered, without a second's hesitation.

Rundhia stared at him scornfully. "Well," he remarked at last, "it might be dangerous to do. You and I must be careful."

The Bengali folded his hands across his stomach: "Very careful." "Things mustn't be traced back to us," said Rundhia. "There is nothing, so far, that can be traced back to me. But I have the goods on you; and by God, if you don't do what I tell you, you're in trouble." Fear looked forth from the Bengali's eyes, but he said nothing. He crossed his knees and waited.

"Norwood has got to be killed," said Rundhia. "He is in love with Miss Lynn Harding. He hates me. He is suspicious by nature. He is on the defensive. And he is the type of person whose idea of self-defense is to attack with every scrap of energy he has. That kind of person is much too dangerous. You and I can't afford to let him live."

If we can blame his death on the priests, that could be made to hold water. The priests bribed him. By this time, they probably know that the news of the bribe is out. It would be natural for them to murder Norwood, to stop his mouth."

"Well, why not let them? Why not leave it to them?" the Bengali retorted.

"Because they won't do it, you fool! Did you ever know a priest to do a thing at the right time to suit someone else? It will have to be done for them. Now here's the idea: they keep a hospice where mendicants may live as long as they please, for no payment. There are three men in that hospice, who would kill their mothers and anyone else for an ounce of opium. For two ounces, they would murder ten children apiece. You know my man Gulbaz?"

"Too well. Some day that bad-mash will turn on you."

Rundhia smiled: "Long before that, dear doctor, he shall swallow one of your prescriptions! Summon Gulbaz. Give him money. I will give you three hundred rupees, and you may keep the change. Tell Gulbaz he is to hire those three men to assassinate Norwood tonight. I don't care how they do it, and I hope they get caught. They have been living for months in the temple hospice. Everyone will believe they are in the pay of the priests. Do you understand?"

"No, he didn't ask me to promise."

"I understand you. I won't do it. I have done what I have done, because you knew of former indiscretions, for which you could have betrayed me to the law. And I will do what I will do, because I need the money. There it ends. I wish you wouldn't keep me waiting. I am becoming nervous. I have drugged his medicine until he needs it five times daily. Now he is demanding one at bedtime. Why wait?"

"Are you sure of the poison?"

"Quite sure. It is the same that I gave you to test on the monkey that you packed in ice and sent to Delhi to be autopsied. It is a vegetable poison. It escapes analysis by all known methods. It is one of five poisons that baffles analysis, once it has become absorbed by the blood. They will find in your uncle's stomach, if they look, some traces of marijuana, which it can be proved that he himself bought, and which I added to his tonic at his own written request. I advise you to act quickly."

Rundhia nodded: "If you will attend to the killing of Norwood, I will let you do the other job tonight. But I want Norwood out of the way."

There was a chill at Lynn's heart. As she walked beside the Maharaneer into the room, that was called the boudoir but retained the sumptuous, old-fashioned splendors of a royal boudoir, she felt more self-critical than ever before in her life. Not even Aunt Harding's cruellest accusations had made her feel as guilty, and as impotent to undo wrong.

"Lynn darling, why are you silent? I can almost always count on you for chatter when I feel despondent."

"Maharaneer, did you ever betray anyone?"

"Let us sit here by the window," said the Maharaneer. "Tell me how it feels. Perhaps I can help you to feel differently. You have helped me in so many ways. There is a law of compensation. Perhaps comes now my opportunity to do for you what you have done for me."

"I hate myself," Lynn answered. "You can't change that. I don't want it changed. If I didn't hate myself for what I've done, I shouldn't be fit to live. The dreadful part is, that I can't undo what I did. Oh, my God—" she put her head between her hands "—I didn't mean to do it. If I could cut out my tongue! But I said it. I can't un-say it."

"Lynn darling, did you promise Captain Norwood not to speak about those diamonds?"

"No. He didn't ask me to promise. He took it for granted that I wouldn't mention what any idiot could guess he hadn't wanted me to see. Captain Norwood saw me kissing Rundhia. I know he did."

"Did he say so?"

"Of course he didn't. And of course he won't mention it, ever, to anyone else. The man is a gentleman. I don't want him to despise me, yet it wouldn't bother me if Rundhia did."

"Perhaps you don't yet understand Rundhia."

"Oh, yes I do. Rundhia is a beautiful savage."

"Darling, did you ask him not to tell?"

"I made it quite clear I was sorry I had told him."

"Well, you must remember that you told him something that concerns the State of Kadur. You uncovered to him the existence of a bribe that might have changed the destiny of Kadur by legalizing the priests' possession of the diamond mine. I haven't told you much about the diamond mine. It is supposed to be a secret. Do you call it a betrayal that I have mentioned it to you?"

"Don't worry. I won't tell!" Lynn answered. "I never want to hear diamonds mentioned again. How long will it take that messenger to reach Captain Norwood?"

"That depends on where Captain Norwood is. The messenger will have to look for him. He has gone on horseback. I ordered him not to spare the horse. It might take him half an hour—an hour."

"I can't wait for an answer! I wish I had gone in search of him, myself. I haven't any pride left. His career will be ruined, won't it?"

"But darling, he deserves to be ruined if he accepts bribes. And if he is innocent he can prove it."

"Do you believe that? I can easily doubt it," Lynn answered. "I have never once been able to prove my innocence, against Aunt's accusations. Not one single one! Not one time—ever. To this minute, she believes everything she has ever said against me." Then, suddenly: "What is Rundhia doing?"

"I don't know."

"Does he like to be despised?"

"Lynn dear, if you should despise him, I don't know what might happen. Rundhia loves you."

"Does he? You think so? Tell him I despise him! And I will, until he proves to me that he has done his absolute, utmost best to undo the cowardly wrong he has done to Captain Norwood."

"Lynn—"

"Maharaneer dear, won't you please tell him? I mean it. He might believe you."

The Maharaneer sighed. She left Lynn and walked out of the room to find Rundhia.

Lynn was seated in the armchair by the window, staring at an illustrated magazine, when the Maharaneer came back.

"Darling, Rundhia has promised."

"What did he promise to do? What can he do?"

"I mean that Captain Norwood can be cleared of the charge of bribery," the Maharaneer answered.

"However, Rundhia made a condition."

"Maharaneer dear! Tell me. Don't prepare me for it. I can take it without our pretending it's something else."

"Very well," said the Maharaneer. "Let us be quite frank with each other. Rundhia loves you."

"So says Rundhia."

"And I love you."

Bicycling Rapidly Becoming Popular French Pastime

So popular has bicycling become in France that the French railways make up entire trains of bicycle cars, the same as mail trains, to handle the more than 7,500,000 bicycles now running rampant over the hills and dales, towns and countryside of that nation, where one out of every six of the population owns a bicycle and stays on it most of the time from the cradle to the grave.

Increased production of low-priced cars, the vast network of motor buses, reduced rates on railways, have all failed to lure the French, men, women and children, from their favorite sport, bicycling. And, where they go, near or far, with them goes their bicycle, until, literally, they crowded the passengers right off the trains during week-ends and vacation seasons.

Bicycle vacationists go directly by train to the center of the distant region chosen for the tour and their bicycles will follow by special train within 24 hours. Or, by shipping one day ahead, will be awaiting the owner. After the holiday is over, the bicycle can be sent back the same way.

In Paris the visitor cannot help but be amazed at the thousands of bicyclists who weave their blissful

"I can believe that," Lynn answered. "Why else should you be so kind? I haven't influence or money."

"You have personality," the Maharaneer answered. "You have imagination and spirit. You can redeem Rundhia. So that when the day comes that he shall be Maharajah of Kadur, he will be a great man. Rundhia will do anything for you—anything. Your influence will persuade him to do good things, of that I am sure. Even now, having known you only one day, for your sake he is willing to save Captain Norwood. But he makes conditions."

"Can't he tell them to me?"

"He has gone in search of that creature Gulbaz. Rundhia has taken it for granted that you will accept the conditions, since he has accepted, as a command your wish that he should help Captain Norwood."

Lynn almost lost her temper. She retorted: "I was treacherous. So was Rundhia. I don't believe Captain Norwood has been! I won't believe it until they prove it."

The Maharaneer returned to her subject: "Rundhia insists that you mustn't tell Captain Norwood whose influence it was that saved him. He demands—and I think that is fair, isn't it?—Rundhia can't afford to be compromised—he demands that if Captain Norwood should characteristically force his way into your presence, you will not answer Norwood's questions."

"But I have asked Captain Norwood to come and see me."

The Maharaneer's sympathy looked genuine. Lynn didn't doubt it:

"Lynn dear, Rundhia thinks that Captain Norwood probably believes you told about the diamonds because you knew that Captain Norwood was embarrassed by your having seen them, and you wished to punish him for remarks he had made, in the garden, last night. Rundhia thinks that perhaps Captain Norwood won't answer your letter."

Lynn was silent for a long time, thinking. The Maharaneer watched her, reading, on Lynn's face, the course of the struggle between pride, humiliation, anger—and some other, western emotion that not even Lynn could have put into words. It was too simple. Too elementary. It escaped analysis. At last Lynn spoke:

"I promise. I won't tell Captain Norwood that Rundhia is helping him. But will Rundhia do it?"

"For you he will do anything," the Maharaneer answered.

CHAPTER XIV

Norwood sat in his tent and checked Stoddard's survey figures, found a couple of mistakes, corrected them, admonished Stoddard and gave the sergeant instructions for the following day. Nervously he walked the distance between the horse line and his tent.

After the third of his paces to and fro, he sat at the table in his tent and wrote a letter to Lynn Harding, tore it up, and made several more attempts. He tore up the last one, gathered all the scraps of paper into one heap, carried them to a cook-fire and burned the lot.

He returned to his tent, scraped out a pipe, wrote another letter to Lynn Harding and tore up that one. It was getting on toward dark. The Kadur River was a splurge of crimson. He heard the hoof-beats of O'Leary's horse at about the hour when he had first seen Lynn Harding in the Maharaneer's carriage. Norwood's servant came and lighted the lamp in the tent.

ISAIAH GIVES GOD'S INVITATION

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 55:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near.—Isaiah 55:6.

Thirsty? A thousand signboards will tell you what to drink to refresh yourself. Most of the suggestions are there only to get your money, and often their proffered lift is a push downward and their refreshment is only a prelude to destruction. But they do declare that thirst is universally present. Throughout the Bible thirst is used to express man's need of and longing for God. He is a spiritual being made in the likeness and image of God and intended for fellowship with Him. Never will he be fully satisfied until he comes to God and meets his hunger and thirst with that "which is good."

The invitation of Isaiah is presented under the figure of a purchase, "Come ye, buy." In carrying out that thought we suggest that there are four steps in buying and using anything.

I. Listen (v. 1).

"Ho, everyone that thirsteth." This is as Spurgeon says "the cry of a salesman at a fair." Amid the confusing sounds and disturbing sights surrounding his customer the salesman must make himself known and catch the interest of his customer. The latter must listen to the offer and the recommendation of the things for sale.

This is an unusual offer. Isaiah invites the buyer to make his purchase "without money and without price." Does that mean that the thing for sale is cheap or worthless? Far from it, for it is priceless. Salvation is free for the sinner, but it cost God the price of His only begotten Son. It is because Jesus paid the price of redemption that we may have it freely without cost.

II. Compare (vv. 2-5).

A good shopper compares values lest he make a bad bargain or buy that for which he has no real need. What is the situation of the one who is invited to buy what God offers? He is a sinner who has been foolishly seeking to satisfy himself with what the world has to offer. With money he has tried to buy happiness, contentment, recognition. The bread of this world will never satisfy and the water of this world only increases one's thirst. (See John 4:13, 14.)

Compare what God has to offer, "that which is good," that which delights the soul (v. 2). Here is life (v. 3) assured by the promise of One who made an "everlasting covenant" with David, assuring him of His "sure mercies." It results in ultimate glory (v. 5).

The one who honestly makes such a comparison is quickly satisfied that the time has come to

III. Buy (vv. 6-9).

Penniless, the sinner may "buy" without money. He may call upon God, for God has already called him. He may seek God, because He like the good shepherd has been out seeking the lost sheep (Matt. 18:12).

While man can certainly not save himself, there are things which God expects the sinner to do. First, he is to "seek the Lord." Where? Right at your side, sinner, for "he is near" (v. 6). Then when the sinner meets the Lord he is at once conscious of his sin. What shall he do with it? Forsake it in both thought and deed (v. 7) and God will "abundantly pardon." Observe that men may by their sinful rejection of Him bring themselves to the place where they not only do not listen to God's call, but actually do not want to hear it. "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found" (v. 6).

IV. Enjoy (vv. 10, 11).

Some foolish folk buy things and put them away where neither they nor anyone else can enjoy them. Some worry so much about the price they paid or are so concerned about the preciousness of the thing purchased that they find no pleasure in using it.

Salvation is not a thing to be hidden or put on a shelf. In fact, it is not a thing at all, but a life. It is to grow, to bud, to blossom and to bear fruit. How? By being ready to receive God's Word which comes down like the rain from the heavens, refreshing, encouraging, and fruitifying the life of the believer.

God's Word never returns to Him void. He prospers it to accomplish His own purpose. But pray tell me, if we never study it or even read it, how can it help our lives? We "grow in grace" only as we grow "in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ" (II Pet. 3:18). We grow in knowledge as we study God's Word. Thus we come to enjoy our Christian life.

Healing Powers

There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits and they were healed every one—Acts 5:16.

How George Came to Get His Face Slapped

The dumb blonde on a country ramble entwined her arm with that of her boy companion, and gushed, "George, you're wonderful!"

"Thank you, Mary," answered George slowly. "And I think you're ditto."

The dumb blonde pondered over this. Before long they came upon old Jollop, the farmer, who was tending his pigs. She took him aside and said: "Tell me, Mr. Jollop, what does ditto mean?"

Jollop thought for a moment, then said, "You see that pig over there by the fence?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, that other pig next to it. That one is ditto to the first one."

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? Isn't little wonder you're constipated? You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Eat All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worry out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Tinley Park Community NEWS

At the meeting of the Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid Wednesday the following were awarded prizes in the blanket club: Mrs. Fred Nitche, 1st; Mrs. Paul Haney, 2nd; Mrs. Harcourt, 3rd; Mrs. Fred Schmiedeknecht, 4th.

Otto Lehman who has been residing in Harvey, moved back to Tinley Park Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Neill, a son on Monday.

This coming Sunday there will be a triple birthday celebration in the home of Mrs. Arthur Mager when the birthdays of A. P. Lindsted, Gertrude Lindsted and Mrs. Arthur Mager will be celebrated.

Joe Greco who has been operating a barber shop in the Goessel building has moved his shop to his home.

The village board will meet next Tuesday night at which time bids for hauling and disposing of rubbish will be opened and contracts awarded.

Elmer Siemsen who is operating an implement shop in the Goessel building has found business expanding so rapidly that he has acquired the space formerly occupied by the Joe Greco barbershop for parts department.

Charles Wallin has been named as the new clerk for the Tinley Park Board of Education succeeding Wm. Rick.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stelter have gone to Silvis where Mr. Stelter is employed in the Rock Island shops. John Schaefer and Herman Lehman have also been transferred to the Silvis Car shops.

The Baptist family have moved to the southeast side of the Elmore subdivision.

Air Cadets

The Tinley Park Air Cadet corps sponsored by the Tinley Park Civic Club held its first meeting in the village hall Monday night, April 27. There are 45 cadets enrolled of whom 36 attended the meeting.

The committee explained to the girls and boys about the contest that will be held at a later date at which prizes will be awarded. The Civic Club will furnish each Cadet with a aeroplane kit which they will build and enter in this contest.

It was explained to the girls and boys that to receive a commission as lieutenant in the Times Air Cadet Corps and to receive the silver wings, they will be required to pass the following compulsory courses: History of aviation; aeronautical terms and types of aircraft; and one optional course selected from the following: engines, model design, and building; radio; administration or airline stewardess.

The committee hopes all the cadets will receive their silver wings.

ATTENTION CADETS

Be sure to attend model airplane meet Sunday, May 12 to be held at Westchester Field from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. on Roosevelt road west of Manheim Road route 45. Free admission and parking space. Come out and see how these contests are run.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

Tinley Park Unit 615 American Legion Auxiliary held its social meeting at the home of Trudie Swisher Friday evening, April 26 with the president, Frances Ceit-ham, presiding. This being the Past Presidents Night, and initiation of new members, all other business of the evening was dispensed with.

The members were all very happy to have Mrs. Lucille Dowd the 8th District Director and Miss Virginia Davis of Homewood as their guests of the evening. Mrs. Dowd was introduced by our president and she very graciously consented to assist in the initiation of one of our members, Mary Maxwell. We were also privileged to enjoy an interesting and inspiring talk by our director.

The National Defense Plate was awarded to Mary Maxwell.

The hostesses of the evening were our president, Frances Ceit-ham, Edna Wallin and Dena Hanson, who served dainty and delightful refreshments that were enjoyed by all.

Short remarks were made by the seven past presidents—Frances Rowden, Margaret West, Minnie Felten, Trudie Swisher, Ruth Freitag, Mamie Brandau and Viola Carr. Our Junior Post president, Mrs. Carr was presented with a gift from the Unit in appreciation for her previous service for which she thanked the members very graciously. Mrs. Dowd was also presented with a gift. And so ended another happy evening that shall long be remembered by every one present.

Minnie Felten, Publicity Chairman

SCHOOL NEWS

By Janice Boerner

The first grade is presenting a playlet for the PTA "Summer Roundup" Friday, May 3rd at 2 p. m.

The eighth grade of Mr. Clinebell's room has a new pupil. He is Edward Lehmann formerly of Harvey.

The Achievement Club has voted to have a party in the woods at the close of this school term. The club also has decided to buy a painting for the school to be from the 1940 Achievement Club.

Marion Brehm of the eighth grade is in the Walthers Memorial Hospital recovering from an appendix operation.

A trip to the Field Museum and aquarium is being arranged by Mr. Clinebell for the third and fourth grades on May 9th. At the museum the group will be divided, third grade will be taken on a lecture tour. Their chosen subject is prehistoric animals and men. The fourth grade will go on a lecture tour covering the world's first great civilization, the Egyptians, the exhibit of marine animals and Ackley Hall.

Law on the Farm

TRACTORS—Since 1919, when Illinois adopted its first motor vehicle act, farmers have been concerned about the effect which these laws have on farm tractors. The following facts about Illinois law now in force will be of interest to tractor owners:

1. Although tractors are defined as "motor vehicles", the law requiring licensing and registration provides that none of the provisions of this act shall be construed to include farm tractors, traction engines, threshing machines, clover hullers, ensilage cutters, corn shredders, corn shellers, corn grinders, hay presses, portable saw mills, binders, combines, farm machinery and implements. The law, however, provides that "nothing in this proviso shall exclude from registration tractors, trucks, trailers, or semi-trailers engaged in transporting agricultural products."

2. The law of 1935 regulating traffic on the highways defines a farm tractor as "a motor vehicle designed and used primarily as a farm implement for drawing plows, mowing machines, and other implements of husbandry," and provides that: "No metal-tired vehicle, including tractors shall be operated over any improved highway of this state if it has on its wheels any block, stud, flange, cleat, ridge, or lug; or any projection of metal or wood projecting beyond the tread of the wheel unless they are arranged in such a manner as to be continuously in contact with the surface of the road." The advent of rubber tires is fast removing the need for this law. The prohibition of this act applies also to oil-treated roads.

HOMER

Mrs. Fred Kopelman

The Young People of the Homer church are sponsoring a moving picture at the Homer church Sunday night, May 5th at 8 o'clock. The subject is "The Beneficent Reprobate". The film will be 40 minutes in length. Rev. C. L. Stokes will then give a ten minute talk on temperance. The purpose in securing this picture is to present the facts about the liquor problem. A free will offering will be given to the Anti-Saloon League as an aid in its work.

May 12, Rev. C. E. Wolsted will preach for the evening service. Elaine Ott has been on the sick list the past week.

The Good Luck Camp of the Royal Neighbors will sponsor a bunco and pinocle party Tuesday afternoon, May 14 in the Goodings Grove hall. Games will begin at 2 o'clock daylight saving time. After the games refreshments will be served. LaVerne Kasper had his car badly damaged Wednesday afternoon when a car driven by Michael Fargo of Lockport township collided with his car. The accident occurred at the intersection of Ninth and Madison streets in Lockport. Luckily no one was seriously hurt.

Mrs. Frank Hartman and daughter of Harvey are spending a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ott.

Shirley Jungles is on the sick list. A large crowd gathered at the Homer town night Friday night. Bunco and cards were enjoyed and later refreshments and dancing. The committee appointed to have charge of the May party is Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hiller, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Konow, Mr. Charles Harris and Miss Eileen Krohn.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kotz and daughters of Chicago were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beaver.

Sunday, Mrs. Fred Paddock, Lois Jungles, Betty Hartman, Owen Rowley and Jerome Paddock motored to Yorkville and attended the district meeting of the Congregational church.

Miss Vera Burnett of Michigan spent the week end with her parents here.

Sunday, fifty relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lister gathered in their home and helped them celebrate their thirtieth wedding anniversary. The entire group had not been together recently so needless to say they all had a very pleasant day. Mr. and Mrs. Lister's four children and their families were present, namely Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lister and daughter Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lister and daughter of Lemont, Mr. and Mrs. J. ## Rev. Paul Sanders Named Head of Palos Youth Hostel

Hikers, bikers, skiers, boaters, all who travel under their own steam, are welcome at youth hostels, which are generally situated about 15 miles apart along hiking, or biking trails and waterways. Hostels are, for the most part, located on farms where the farmer and his wife have converted a barn or extra space in the house into bunkrooms and recreation rooms, and act as "house-parents" to the traveling youth. Besides the AYH pass, the hosteler need bring only a sheet, sleeping sack, and plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon. The hostel provides beds, blankets and heavy cooking utensils. The charges are 25 cents for overnight and 5 or 10 cents for fuel. Most hostelers budget themselves to one dollar a day for food and overnights. The AYH pass, which is recognized by 4700 hostels in 18 countries, costs $1 for those under twenty-one and $2 for those over that age.

The founder of the youth hostel movement was Richard Schirrmann, a school teacher in Central Europe. He took his students out of the smoky city to the clean beauty of the hills and countryside, where he made arrangements for them to stay overnight in neighboring schools and farms. In this way the idea of youth hostels was born. The first European hostel was opened in 1910 in the Castle of Altena, a twelfth-century castle. It was not long before hostels were spreading into other countries, gathering recognition and commendation. Educators led the way; peace leaders saw in hosteling a practical way to build international friendships.

Youth hosteling came to America in 1934 when Isabel and Monroe Smith established the first hostel in Northfield, Mass. Each year has shown an increase in the number of hostels and hostelers. In 1939 there were 11,146 passholders and 209 hostels in which were registered 34,782 overnights. Nearly 80 per cent of these young travelers were cyclists; the remaining 20 per cent were hikers, horseback riders, flatboaters and skiers. Safe cycling is the motto of hostelers who travel by bicycle and it speaks well for them and for American Youth Hostels, which educates them to the rules for safe cycling, that there were no major accidents thruout the country during the past year.

R. I. Observes 63rd Anniversary Dining Car Service

When patrons of the Rock Island lines sit down to their dinners of native fish in the diners of that railroad today, they will be joining the Rock Island in observing the sixty-third anniversary of the operation of dining car service of that railway.

According to the records of the passenger department of the Rock Island, their dining cars were first placed in regular service between Chicago and Council Bluffs, Iowa, in 1877. The "line" then consisted of two special diners known as the "Occident" and the "Orient"—ornate examples of the car builders' art of the days of the pioneer, when wild game was plentiful throughout the Middle West. Today, the Rock Island has thirty-five diners in operation throughout the system.

Featured on the Colorado trains, including the stream-lined, Diesel-powered Rocky Mountain Rocket, are the famous mountain trout from Colorado. On other diners, native fish from Minnesota, Arkansas, Missouri, and other sections, are served. It is interesting to note that most of the vegetables served on these diners come from the farming sections through which the trains operate.

Mrs. Royal Corp spent several days last week with relatives in Pontiac.

Laverne Lauffer of Joliet spent several days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lauffer while his wife was in Iowa.

The baby of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cutler has been named Dianne Ruth.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Angus of Joliet spent Wednesday in the Jesse Marshall home.

Miss Jeanne Frazer and Kenneth Lauffer were guests of Lois and Bob Sproat Sunday afternoon and evening.

There will be a seed and plant exchange at the next meeting of the Marley Woman's Club. Mrs. Jesse Marshall will be program chairman. Mrs. Francis Nelson and Mrs. Chas. Sievert are the hostesses.

ORLAND PARK

A card and bunco party will be held at the St. Michael church hall on Saturday night, May 4th. Every one welcome.

A turtle soup party was held on Wednesday night at Barney Moore's place.

Invitations have been issued announcing the forth coming marriage of Miss Lillian Oswald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Oswald to Mr. Louis J. Titra on Wednesday afternoon May 29th at 2 o'clock in the St. Michael church in Orland Park.

A reception will be held at Oswald's Grove the same evening at eight o'clock.

The village board will meet Tuesday night, May 13th.

The Orland Park fire department was called out Sunday afternoon to fight a grass fire in Palos Park which was threatening several buildings. The blaze was put out quickly.

A painted picture of the new Orland Park gymnasium and its building plan made by James Pomeroy, the Orland architect, will be on exhibit in the Orland Park library starting the week of May 5th.

A number of young folks held a dance in the Creer hall Tuesday night.

The last PTA meeting of this season will be held in the Orland Park school auditorium Thursday night, May 9th.

The Adult Bible Class of the Orland Park Methodist church will meet May 8th.

The Orland R. N. A. camp held their monthly meeting last Thursday night in Creer hall. District Supervisor Carrie Krieger was present as also was Mrs. Schaefer, R. N. A. Juvenile director of Logan Square Camp. Both gave interesting talks.

Work on the new gym has been held up by the belated snow storm.

Mrs. Morlock and son Jay Alan have returned home from the Silver Cross hospital.

The Orland Park Laurel Camp of Royal Neighbors have been invited to attend the guest night being sponsored by the Mokena Sunbeam camp of the Royal Neighbors at Mokena next Monday night.

ORLAND PARK HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The three act comedy "When Jane Takes a Hand" will be presented in the school auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday nights, May 7th and 8th at 8 p. m. Tickets are now available and may be bought from any of the High School pupils. The money which is made by giving the play will be used for the annual high school dinner and theatre party and it is hoped that all parents and friends of the school will come to see the play, which should appeal to every one in interest and amusement.

There is comedy furnished by the two characters, Mammy Josephine and Archibald played by Marion Peters and Bill Maddox, respectively with such lines as these:

M. Josephine: Archibald Montgomery, how come you git so dirty?

Archibald: Dat aint dirt. Mammy, dat's mah natural color.

There is romance. As Mrs. Bates, Hilda Zerbs says: "Oh, Mr. Mason—just suppose there should be a romance in this house! There's only been quarrelling for so long! Wouldn't the house feel strange?"

There is excitement as Jimmie, played by Eugene Uthe says: "I'm going to get that blamed deed! Don't you tell Jane where I've gone! I'm going and I'm not coming back till I have it! Bye!"

There will be musical features between all acts of the play. Students are participating in these. Also Mr. Harry R. Hohenshell, music instructor of Joliet will furnish several numbers.

IN MEMORIAM

Mary Enders in fond and loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away a year ago, May 3rd, 1939.

A year ago tonight you smiled And closed your weary eyes To sleep, assured, in Angels arms Who sing your lullabies.

Our broken hearts, have memories And dreams when day is done Of how when life is finished here We'll be with you, dear Mother.

And it will be like coming home As we have done before, To find you waiting, arms outstretched,

To greet us at the door.

Argentinian Will Race 'South American Way'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—An Italian racing car will feel the grip of a fine Argentine hand in the "500."

Raul Riganti, idol of South American auto racing fans, will stage his comeback at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30th behind the wheel of an Italian Maserati car bought for him by public subscription in his country.

Riganti raced at Indianapolis in 1923 and 1933, coming here for the first time as a member of the famous Bugatti team headed by the European sportsman, Prince de Cystria.

The Argentinian brings back to Indianapolis the first international entry in seven years. North and South America are watching his effort with interest.

TWO CHAMPIONS TO MATCH RACING SKILL AS ARCH RIVALS ON HOOSIER SPEEDWAY

Wilbur Shaw, great winner of the 1937 and 1939 500-mile races, will have doughty Kelly Petillo, winner in 1935, as one of his chief rivals May 30th in the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—There's a two-man feud flaring in the one-man cars in the 500-mile race this year.

The party of the first part is Kelly Petillo, the doughty California Italian who won in 1935. The party of the second part—add he wants no part of the party of the first part—is colorful Wilbur Shaw, winner of the speed classic in 1937 and 1939.

These two former winners of America's greatest automobile race are racing to "take" each other May 30th in the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. They're both nervy. They're both skilled chauffeurs. And they'll both be ready to run off a natural rivalry on May 30th.

Petillo and Shaw became rivals in 1935, when Wilbur stayed on Petillo's tail for 150 miles and trailed the Italian across the finish line by a scant 40-second margin.

In 1936, Petillo was all set to retire and live on his winnings. He named Doc MacKenzie as his driver and stayed in the pits. But in the last stages of the race with MacKenzie running seventh, behind Shaw, Petillo couldn't resist the temptation to get out and drive again. He called MacKenzie into the pits, drove like fury and finished his car in third place, well ahead of Shaw who wound up seventh.

Shaw had his day in 1937, when he gave a sensational performance to win by two seconds over Ralph Hepburn. Petillo didn't finish. Shaw was second in the 1938 grind, and Petillo again was out. Petillo's car broke down in the final stages of the 1939 contest, while Shaw again flashed across the line—a two-time winner.

Petillo's burned at his luck—and at Shaw. "Just give me a couple of breaks on May 30th, and I'll trim Shaw just like I did in 1935," he growls. And Wilbur grins back: "Okay, Kelly, keep up with me for the first four hundred and we'll have a race all our own in the final hundred miles."

So watch for that speed duel. These boys really want to race!

Chicago Home Show Will Open Saturday

"The Big Show" for home lovers home owners and prospective home builders, the fifth annual Chicago Home Show, opens Saturday May 4, in the historic Chicago Coliseum, 15th St., and Wabash Ave., under the auspices of the National House and Garden Exposition.

A veritable army of workman are laboring all this week in the big building to have everything in readiness for the "curtain call" at 10 a. m., Saturday. By that time, the main hall of the Coliseum will have been converted into a fairland of estate gardens which would cost upwards of $50,000 to reproduce out-of-doors; the North hall will contain the elaborate 1940 Coal and Stoker Exposition of the Chicago Coal Merchants and the Midwest Stoker Associations; the South hall will present a comprehensive handicrafts display of the Chicago Park District; and the second floor of the South hall will hold the artistic galleries of the nationwide amateur photographic contest.

Visitors at the Home Show will include more than 5,000 brides and brides-to-be, who, with their bridegrooms or fiancés, have been invited to attend the show as guests of the National House and Garden Exposition, Inc., and their respective community or home town newspapers.

Among the outstanding attractions at the Home Show will be:

Cooking School; 1940 Coal and Stoker Exposition; Cut-away Model Bungalow; Chicago Park District Handicrafts; War Veterans Handicrafts Display; Estate Gardens; Amateur Photographic Galleries.

"BOSSY" GOES TO SCHOOL

MANY CHICAGO CHILDREN SEE COW FOR FIRST TIME

Milk Foundation Builds for Increased Milk Consumption

For the thousands of boys and girls in the Chicago Area who have never had the opportunity of being on a dairy farm, or of even knowing exactly what a dairy cow looks like, the Milk Foundation, an educational health foundation, organized by members of the Pure Milk Association together with their co-operating dealers, has created its special "cow and calf" project.

This project consists of taking a cow and her calf around to the hundreds of schools in Chicago and its suburbs and letting the youngsters get a first hand view of "Bossy" to see and learn just how milk is made. Then, after each visit, special graded literature on the nutritional importance of milk is sent to the schools where the teachers use it as a complete supplement for a series of health lessons. (In addition to such specialized projects, the "regular" requests received by the Foundation from teachers amount to well over 25,000 each school year. These, in turn, represent between 40-50 students per teacher—or approximately 1,250,000 children!) Thus, we may be sure that the Milk Foundation school program is making for a more health-conscious and therefore, more milk-conscious community—all of which means that the dairy farmer has and will continue to have a steadily growing market for his product.

The benefits of such a school program cannot be overestimated. A health education organization such as the Milk Foundation, can, as Carl F. Deysenroth, manager, puts it: "help to bring about higher standards of physical health through spreading the knowledge of milk's nutritional value and in addition as milk consumption increases, the dairy farming communities become more prosperous."

Concealed Evidence

By NAN CLIFFORD

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

MARY MARTIN stared aghast at George's Aunt Olivia. "Bake bread!" she cried nervously. "Oh, I'm perfectly certain I never could do that. Besides," brightly, "we really get awfully good bread at the delicatessen."

"Nonsense!" snorted Aunt Olivia. "I brought George up on homemade bread and I'm positive he won't thrive on any other kind. I noticed," eyeing Mary accusingly, "that he looked peaked when he stopped in to see me last night. And only three months married!"

"That's because he's been palling around with Professor Jenkins next door," retorted Mary with spirit. "George wouldn't look so starved and neglected if he didn't go wading through swamps getting his feet soaked and his face all scratched up. He's getting absolutely balm about botanical specimens."

"George needs to eat plenty of home-made bread," declared Aunt Olivia with irritating persistency, quite ignoring Mary's outburst. "Get paper and pencil, my dear. I'll give you my three hour recipe. It's as simple as A B C. One hour to set, one hour to rise, one hour to bake."

Mary sighed, but gave in. To preserve harmony in the family, she even promised to bake bread that very day.

It was two o'clock when Mary, following Aunt Olivia's instructions, wrapped the bowl containing the bread sponge snugly in a blanket and placed it in the south window to set.

There was no sun. Clouds threatened rain and a depressing chill was in the air.

Mary watched the clock anxiously. At exactly three she prepared to wrestle with the next problem—that of making the sponge into loaves. Strangely, she found the unpleasant-looking lump of dough at the window much as she had left it. And Aunt Olivia had said it would have risen to the top of the mixing bowl. Uncertainly, she decided to let it set awhile longer.

Four o'clock came and the dough was unchanged! Five o'clock—and George due shortly!

All in a dither, her cheeks blazing and her hands cold, Mary seized the yellow bowl and made for the back yard. Aunt Olivia should never hear of it! Never! As for George—it was just as well he shouldn't hear of it either. At 5:15 she ran around the corner to the delicatessen.

"Gosh! This is good bread, honey," enthused George that night at dinner. "I stopped in to see Aunt Olivia for a minute and she told me of the treat I had coming." He helped himself to another slice.

"I'm glad you like it, darling," she said blithely. "You must eat loads of it. Aunt Olivia says you're beginning to look peaked."

George grinned sheepishly. "Poor old Aunt Olivia can't reconcile herself to my man's estate. I owe her a lot, honey, and I'm glad you let her boss you a little. And say! are you some cook or are you some cook? This bread is better than any Aunt Olivia ever poked a fist into."

Mary's conscience gave her a stab. But, in spite of it, she could not help but relish the keen joke.

"Holy catnip! come here!" shouted George the next morning.

Mary rushed in from the kitchen to find him standing bulge-eyed at the dining room window.

"Look! look there!" he cried, pointing a finger excitedly. "A magnificent specimen of fungi right in our own garden. I must call Professor at once. He'll be ga-ga over it. Just yesterday we were discussing the types of fungi found in this climate. I'm dead sure this is calvatia gianica—a type he's never before discovered around here. It must be fully eighteen inches in diameter, plant fibrose, nearly sessile, cortex white and smooth, becoming yellowish. See—"

But Mary was not listening. Horrified, she stared out of the window. Yes, that was the very spot. Close to the syringa bush. A white mass of something that could be only one thing had pushed aside the thin layer of soil with which she hastily covered the contents of the yellow bowl. During the night, the temperature had turned considerably warmer.

Beaming with his glad tidings, George started for the garden gate to summon the professor. Mary clutched his arm.

"Wait—a minute—darling!" trying to overcome the paroxysm of laughter that convulsed her. "That's not—that's not a toadstool!"

"Toadstool!" exploded George indignantly. "Of course, it's not a toadstool. It's a very rare specimen of—"

"Homemade bread!" gasped Mary.

George looked alarmed. "What's the matter, honey?" he asked anxiously. "Don't you feel well? Are you feverish or something?"

Mary choked, but managed to explain.

"Anyhow," she sighed contentedly, after she'd been forgiven for a number of things—the most important being George's injured feelings, "I'll never have to try to make bread again, thank goodness!"

HOW WALTER MANAGED

By HARVEY RYAN

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WALTER STRONG had more than made good in the western office of Jones and Smith as personnel manager.

When, a few years before, Walter had finished college, he had a more or less definite idea that he would be an electrical engineer. He knew little about psychology. He knew such things as they came. But in the big construction firm where he got his first job he developed a wonderful knack at managing people. Mr. Jones, the president, tried him out, and finally made him personnel manager. And, after a couple of years, transferred him to the eastern office.

"I'm giving you free rein, Strong," said Mr. Jones. "We've got to put in some big economies there. Excepting the big executives, you can bounce or boost whoever you like. If you want to double a good man's salary and give him more responsibility, go ahead. And if you want to fire anybody, that's all right, too."

So Walter took charge of personnel in the eastern office and settled down to make good. Making good became doubly important after he had met Nancy Smith, daughter of the junior partner of the firm and manager of the eastern branch.

Nancy was the girl Walter had dreamed of all his life. It wasn't just her soft brown eyes or her rosy-tinted creamy cheeks. It wasn't her infectious laugh or her enthusiastic interest in anything you told her. It wasn't any one of the thousand and one charms that went to make up Nancy, nor all of them put together. It was just Nancy herself.

Mr. Smith took Walter home to dinner—that was when he first met Nancy. He met her often after that and he soon realized that she was essential to his happiness—to his life itself, he thought.

One thing about Nancy worried him. She seemed unaffectedly glad to see him—he was even sure she liked him. But on the ring finger of her right hand she wore a large and beautiful diamond. One evening he brought himself to the point of expressing his admiration for it.

"Oh, that," said Nancy nonchalantly.

"It isn't an engagement ring, is it?" asked Walter a little huskily.

"Engagement?" Echoed Nancy. "Oh, yes, it's an engagement ring. I haven't announced it yet, but I probably shall next week. Then I'll put the ring over to the other hand. I'm just getting used to it." She smiled at him sweetly.

Stunned a bit, Walter nevertheless did not give up hope. Until that ring went over to the other hand he'd do his best to make Nancy like him. And what more telling way to effect that end than to make a better thing of his job than ever before? He'd been a little too soft at the office. He'd stop that—he wouldn't let personal feelings interfere with his work at all. That nice young Tom Crawford in the outer office. Extremely inefficient. Walter had been watching him closely and he didn't seem to be doing anything at all. He hated, though, to discourage him—might be supporting a widowed mother and orphaned sister—all that kind of thing. Still, the sooner he realized he was a flop in this job the better it would be for him.

So a few days later Walter fired Tom. Tom was, apparently, much distressed and totally surprised.

"I'm sorry," said Walter, "but that's final. You're non-productive here; and the sooner you find out that you're no good at this kind of work, the better."

Later in the day Walter asked Tom to dinner that night. Walter had been brutal, of course—you couldn't fire anybody without being brutal. Maybe they could talk things over at dinner, and leave things in a pleasanter state. Walter liked Tom, the more he saw of him. At dinner he explained that he'd help him if he could, and was awfully sorry.

"You've probably got worries and troubles, like the rest of us—and if you're in any sort of personal jam—well, I'd be glad to help you till you get placed again."

"That's good of you," said Tom. "But my troubles aren't exactly financial though that comes into it. You see, I'm engaged to the wrong girl. She doesn't know it—maybe she cares for me. But, you see, when she knows I've lost my job—it's a complication, that's all. I've thought lately I might ask her to let me off—I'm in love with another girl. But now she'd think I was doing it for her sake. And she's a fine girl—she'd stick to a fellow if he was in trouble."

The next afternoon Walter was in his office when Smith, who hadn't been in that day, telephoned him to come to his home. Walter got there a little ahead of time and was greeted by a much agitated Nancy.

"Well, now do you know what you've done?" she demanded.

"Done? Why, I haven't done anything," answered Walter.

"You've done something awful," protested Nancy. "Dad doesn't know just what to do about it, either. And I'm sure I don't. You've fired Tom Crawford. And he the nephew and heir of Mr.

Jones—and you ought to know how awful that is, with Mr. Jones president and everything. Nobody at the office but father knew it—and father agrees with you that Tom's a dumb-bell. But it's awful, just the same." Walter looked serious. "Yes," he said. "It is. But I think it's the right thing to do just the same. He's not the man for the job. There's a lot of good in him and I'm going to help him get placed somewhere else. I think it's what Jones would have wanted me to do."

"But you don't know everything," persisted Nancy. "You see—he's the man I'm engaged to. And of course now, when he's out of luck—well, you see just lately"—and Nancy blushed—"I've been thinking I'd explain—I mean, I'd break the engagement. But now I can't. I can't desert him when he's down."

"But are you in love with him?" Walter almost shouted.

"You mustn't ask me that," Nancy whispered.

"Nancy," said Walter, taking her hand, "don't worry. If you're not sure you're in love with Tom, and if you think—if you think maybe you care for somebody else—don't worry, Nancy."

Then Walter explained. And when Nancy's father found them fifteen minutes later and heard their story, he put the finishing touch to their happiness. He'd just got a telegram, within ten minutes, from Jones. Tom had telephoned him not to interfere when he heard of his discharge. And Jones had telegraphed Smith: Glad Tom is out of misfit job. Tell him I will stake him for stock farm he wants to buy and know he will succeed with it.

'Baby' Plane Demonstrates

Complete Maneuverability
CHARLESTON, S. C.—The pilot opened the throttle wide on a trim little low-wing monoplane which he had built after 20 years of study and experiment.

The ivory-colored craft began moving, slowly at first, into the wind. Quickly it gained speed, and after a 75-foot run it nosed upward and was in the air.

Thus the first flight of a plane that is expected to fulfill a long-felt need of aviation was under way.

As the ship's wheels left the ground, Martin Jensen, the builder and pilot, cut it sharply with a kick on the left rudder. The plane roared toward the sun with never a falter. Then Jensen circled and climbed higher, leveling off at 3,000 feet.

Some 500 spectators who had assembled to watch the maiden flight agreed that the craft did anything and everything known to aviation.

Everyone was satisfied with the maneuverability of the plane and its sturdiness after Jensen had whipped it into every stunt he knew. Its cruising speed was established at 110 miles an hour, and its landing speed at about 40.

Designed with extreme streamlining, with all struts and braces concealed inside the wings, the ship proved to be at least 25 miles an hour faster than other planes in its class and horsepower. It is equipped with a new Franklin 60-horsepower airplane motor.

Ivory colored with a light blue trim, the plane is constructed with plywood covering overall with a new bakelite finish resistant to weather. Inside the fuselage, the upholstery is of orange and gray cloth similar to that used in higher-priced automobiles.

The ship will fly 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

In flight, the plane looks like an army pursuit craft because of its streamlined structure. The wings are much smaller than those of other ships, the same length from propeller to tailskid, and the wings taper at the outer ends.

Principal features of the monoplane conform with desires of pilots throughout the country as found in a recent poll conducted to determine features of an "ideal" plane for civilian fliers.

Food Fit for a King

Famous are the stories and pictures telling how old English kings ripped apart a roast chicken or whole pig, ate with the joints clutched in their fists and threw the bones on the royal dining room floor for the dogs. Meals lasting several hours were the rule, but hardly one of these banquets would be considered fit food for a dog today, because the meat, the main course, was not always fresh.

People didn't know how to store hay and fodder as winter feed for live stock. So each fall, writes a correspondent to the Washington Post, they slaughtered all but a few of their animals. The meat, poorly cured, soon began to turn bad. To disguise its taste and smell nobles used costly spices. Cows couldn't be milked in winter. Fresh vegetables and eggs were not available. Fish, dried, was as bad as the meat. The only other foods were cheese, dried peas and beans and bread.

As the Tree Lives

Every living cell of a tree is at all times consuming food, breathing, and giving off waste. Trees store their food during the summer in their stems, limbs, trunks, and roots. It is carried about in the sap. Oxygen is constantly absorbed by the tree, and carbon dioxide is given off. The "breathing" results in the liberation of some heat. In the spring the tree must draw further on its reserve food supply to open its buds and put out its new leaves. It is in the new leaves that food is again manufactured.

Consult Doctor For Persistent 'Crop' of Boils

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE usual treatment for a boil now is to let it alone or perhaps apply a "drawing" ointment to cover the boil only and not the surrounding skin. The use of poultices on the surrounding skin is a mistake. A poultice that just covers the boils helps to draw the contents of the boil to a "head." When the boil is ready to open, a toothpick is dipped in carbolic acid and used to make an opening in the boil to allow pus to come out.

Where there is a "crop" of boils or a carbuncle (a large swelling or lumps with a number of openings), no "home" treatment should be attempted and a physician should be consulted. However, when boils occur from time to time the underlying cause or causes should be sought. Treatment directed toward the removal of these underlying causes usually results in success.

Dr. Barton

Remove Sources of Friction.

"It consists of the removal of local sources of friction—collars, clothing, the removal of substances obstructing the opening of the hair roots (dirt, oil, pimples), the treatment of any infection—teeth, sinuses, the treatment of underlying skin ailments, acne (pimples), dandruff, hives, eczema, itch and the treatment, when present, of too much sugar in the blood, anemia, undernourishment and the like.

The thought then when boils occur from time to time is to try to find the cause among those mentioned above, and then undergo treatment by ultra-violet or X-ray to improve the tone and infection-resisting ability of the skin.

The eating of too much starch food—bread, potatoes, sweets—may greatly increase the sugar in the blood and be a factor in causing boils.

Varicose Vein Treatment Varies

DURING the examination of recruits for the Great war any case with a marked degree of varicose veins in the legs was rejected as being on the feet in the standing position for long periods would be sure to make the condition worse.

The injection method was known, but not highly regarded at that time, and so if these men were very anxious to proceed overseas they were sent to hospital, underwent operation, remained about three weeks in hospital, and were then put on "light duty" for about three months.

Today more cases with varicose veins undergo the injection treatment than operation because more thought is given to each case and only those cases that can expect satisfactory results either from injection or operation are given treatment. That is, each case is tested as to the ability of the deep-lying veins to do their work, should the large knotted and twisted veins on the outside be removed by injection or operation.

Deeper Veins Draw Blood.

After observing the condition of the veins as the patient walks about, a tourniquet—tight band—is put around the upper leg or thigh and the patient again walks around the room. Usually the veins do not stand out so prominently because the deeper veins not only do the work but seem to draw some of the blood out of the outer varicose veins. This is good evidence that should these outer varicose veins be removed the inner or deep veins can carry on the circulation properly.

When the tight band makes no improvement in the appearance of the veins or when the veins stand out even worse, then it is not considered wise to destroy these outer veins either by the injection method or by surgery.

When these veins are not very large or there are but a few of them simply injecting the veins with a hardening solution will destroy them. When veins are very prominent it is often necessary to tie off the large veins, high up in the thigh, feeding the veins on the lower leg before the injections are made into these veins.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What causes hives?

A.—Hives (urticaria) are usually caused by foods or drugs to which an individual is sensitive or allergic.

A.—Yes.

Q.—Is the X-ray an effective method of stopping excessive perspiration?

A.—Yes.

THE TRUTH COMES OUT AT TEA FOR THE CROWD
(See Recipes Below)

At the Tea Table

This is the one year in four when the bachelor had better put on his running boots or else risk getting caught and deprived of the freedom he prizes so dearly. For it's Leap year . . . girl proposes and man can't very well dispose . . . at least that's how the legend runs.

There's nothing quite so modern as an old-fashioned engagement tea with which to make the announcement that Judy loves John and John doesn't mind at all.

There's nothing so modern, either, as inviting the young man in the case and his bachelor friends to the party. Now, in 1940, afternoon tea is not the "strictly feminine" affair it has been unjustly accused of being. On the contrary, Mr. America prefers the invigorating pick-up, just as long as he can take his tea exactly as he likes! This may mean with clove-spiced lemon, or a touch of candied ginger, perhaps.

Since the boys hate fuss and frills, and like a girl to come straight to the point without keeping them guessing, they would think it pretty clever to "say it" with hearts bearing the initial of the happy pair attached to the strings of the tea-balls.

Cookies are to the male what candy is to the baby . . . the most desirable bon-bon in the world of sweetmeats. So . . . if you know any girl who has gotten herself engaged and is about to tell the world so . . . suggest that she invite the boys along with the girls to hear the glad news and tell her to be generous with the cookies!

Frosted Squares.

4 eggs
2 cups light brown sugar
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup nutmeats (broken)
1 cup raisins or dates (cut fine)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs until very light. Add sugar gradually, continuing to beat until the mixture is very light and fluffy. Sift together the flour, baking powder, cinnamon, salt, and cocoa. Add the rest of the mixture, blending thoroughly. Then add nuts, raisins or dates, and vanilla. Spread in shallow, greased pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 25 minutes. Remove from pan while still warm. Frost with chocolate peppermint confectioners' sugar icing. Cut in squares.

Little Swedish Tea Cakes.

1 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups cake flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Ice cream

Cream butter and add sugar slowly. Cream well. Add well beaten egg and blend. Sift flour once before measuring and then sift again with salt. Add and blend in flouring. Place a rounded teaspoonful of batter in very small greased muffin tins (1 1/2 inches in diameter). Press batter up sides and over bottom so that there is a hollow in the center. Fill this hollow with an almond filling (about 1 teaspoonful).

Chinese Cakes.

(Makes 3 dozen)
1 cup butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup blanched almonds (broken)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup powdered sugar

Cream butter and sugar. Add flour and almonds. Knead. Shape into small balls and place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 minutes, or until done, but not brown. Remove from cookie sheet with spatula. Add vanilla to powdered sugar and roll cakes in sugar mixture.

Almond Filling.

2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 lb. finely ground almonds
Beat eggs until very light and add sugar, salt, and ground almonds which have been put through food chopper twice. Bake 30 minutes in a slow moderate oven (325 degrees). Cool and serve with ice cream.

Toasted Almond Sticks.

2 1/2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter (melted)
1/4 cup milk
1 egg
1/2 pound blanched almonds (chopped)
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon almond flavoring
1/4 teaspoon salt

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Mix beaten egg, butter (melted), milk and flavoring. Add to dry ingredients making a stiff dough. Grease a 9 by 13 cookie sheet with butter. Press dough evenly into pan. Sprinkle almonds evenly over all and press well into dough. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes, or until firm to the touch. Let stand a few minutes, and while still warm cut with a sharp knife into 3-inch strips about one inch wide. Turn cut side up, leaving a space between each stick, and return to hot oven. Toast to a rich brown. Will keep almost indefinitely.

Queen of Hearts Cake.

3/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
2 1/4 cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites

Cream the butter, add the sugar, and beat well. Sift the flour, baking powder, soda and salt and add alternately with the sour milk and vanilla. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold into cake. Bake in two layers or oblong bread pans in a moderate oven (365 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and cut cake into small hearts with a cookie cutter. Ice with Queen of Hearts Icing.

Queen of Hearts Icing.

2 cups granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon cream tartar
1 cup hot water
Confectioners sugar, sifted (about 1 lb.)

Red vegetable coloring.

Cook sugar, cream of tartar and water in a saucepan until a thin syrup (226 degrees) is formed. Cool slightly. Then add enough confectioners sugar to make an icing of pouring consistency. Add food coloring and then pour over the hearts, covering them thoroughly with the icing.

Now that the engagement has been announced, there'll be parties galore for the bride-to-be. If you're planning to entertain for a June bride, be sure to read Eleanor Howe's column next week. You'll find, there, tested recipes and menus especially suitable for parties for a bride.

Braided Rug With Scalloped Border

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ONE day a snap-shot came from a reader showing a half dozen braided rag rugs spread out on the grass. No two were alike. I thought this one with a scalloped border particularly interesting.

She uses wool rags and frequently dyes them the colors she wants. She cuts or tears them into strips an inch or more wide, according to the weight of the material and then braids them tightly. The braided strips are sewn together with double carpet thread and she keeps the work flat.

flat on the table all the time she is sewing. For this rug, the center row is 15 inches long. Sew around and around this, using the colors indicated. When the oval is 31 inches long and 16 inches wide, divide it evenly around the edge with pins about five inches apart. Now, sew a row around with a 2-inch loop at each pin. Sew the next three rows around these loops easing the braiding in just enough to keep the work flat.

NOTE: "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family" is another interesting rug-making idea. Directions are in Mrs. Spears' Book 3, which also tells how to make spool shelves; streamlining an old style bed; and many other useful ideas. Write Mrs. Spears today, enclosing 10 cents in coin and book No. 3 will be sent to you by return mail.

Daily Growth

I don't think much of a man who is not wiser today than he was yesterday.—Lincoln.

WHY SHOULDN'T I STEAL HIM FROM YOU IF I CAN?

I gave her my best, but—my sister hated me.

Maybe it was because we were only half-sisters. Our mothers were different; as different as we were ourselves. But, I had promised our father on his deathbed that I would see that Gladys got everything until she was old enough to look out for herself.

I was faithful to that promise. Gladys was beautiful, popular—and in spite of my efforts—wild. And she envied me the man I loved. Yet she might have found real happiness, but—

Maybe you, yourself, are in the position of Jane Kent, or maybe you know some one who is. How would you work out this human problem?

That there is a way out—a real solution—is proved by the human, poignant diary of Jane Kent who writes her real life story under the title "Wild Sister" in June

END BEFORE BEGINNING

Two old settlers, confirmed bachelors, sat in the backwoods. The conversation drifted from politics and finally got around to cooking. "I got one of them cookery books once, but I could do nothing with it." "Too much fancy work in it, eh?" "You've said it! Every one o' them recipes began the same way: 'Take a clean dish . . . and that settled me.'"

Popular Apron for Beginner to Make

HERE'S one to begin on, if you've never done any sewing. Pattern No. 1927-B consists of just three pieces that go together to become the most practical and comfortable of pinafore aprons—and it is a pretty thing to look at, too, slim-waisted and bright with braid. It buttons on the shoulders and slips on over your head. And then it stays put! No fumbling over complicated cross-buttoning effects, no slipping and sliding. It protects the top as well as the skirt of your dress.

Three or four aprons like this, in percale, calico or gingham, will make your home life much easier and happier. It's a nice suggestion for occasional gifts, too, and a sell-out at club or church sales, because it's the type every woman wants! Send for the pattern right this minute, and you'll be as enthusiastic as is everybody who has tried it!

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1927-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 35-inch material without nap; 10 yards of ricrac. Send order to:
